Pure Perfection

where the past and present meet to create golfing excellence

In the past ten years, Scotland’s Golf Coast has welcomed some of the greatest names in world golf, hosting the Scottish Open five times, the Scottish Women’s Open six times, the Scottish Senior Open five times and the World Hickory Open. We are proud and excited to welcome back to East Lothian the Genesis Scottish Open in 2022, together with the ASI Scottish Ladies Open, the Staysure Tour Scottish Senior Open and the World Hickory Open.

We are proud and excited to welcome back to East Lothian the Genesis Scottish Open in 2021, together with the AIG Women’s Open, which comes to Muirfield for the first time. Scotland’s Golf Coast stretches east from Edinburgh for 30 miles through East Lothian’s stunning coastline, golden beaches and rolling countryside - Scotland’s Golf Coast Road provides a rich variety of courses worthy of inclusion on any golfer’s bucket list.

There are 21 must-play courses in East Lothian which is also recognised as the sunniest and driest part of Scotland. East Lothian offers a truly authentic links golf experience supported with some outstanding parkland courses.

The world's oldest continuously played course, Musselburgh Links, and the golf club whose members drafted the first 13 Rules of Golf, the Honourable Company of Edinburgh Golfers, are both to be found in East Lothian. The County has played host to The Open Championship on 22 occasions and Willie Park Sr. the first ever champion was based at Musselburgh. The Ryder Cup, European Tour, Ladies European Tour and Seniors Tour Championships as well as every notable British Amateur Championship have all been staged in this small part of Scotland.

Mary Stuart, Queen of Scots, was a notable golfer who fell foul of the Church for playing golf over the fields of Seton in East Lothian just a few days after the murder of her second husband, Lord Darnley in 1567 and later North Berwick became the first golf club to include women. The 'Mother of Golf' in the 'Cradle of Golf' - all part of the rich golfing heritage of the area.

Eight of the courses on Scotland's Golf Coast feature in Golf World's Top 100 links courses in the UK and Ireland (more than any other region), with Muirfield topping Golf Monthly's list of Top 100 Courses in the UK and Ireland. This remarkable corner of Scotland the 'Home of Golf' features a depth, variety and quality of golf courses which can compete with any golf destination in the world. It is little wonder then that 'National Club Golfer' voted the area the No.1 Short Break Golf Destination in the UK.

Stunning coastal vistas are offered in abundance with no better an example than that of the seventh tee of Gullane No.1 where you will find a 360-degree panorama described as the best view in golf, featuring eight of the courses in the area. Beautiful coastal surroundings also feature when playing Longniddry, host to the Scottish Open Qualifier in 2018, Kilsplindie, Luffness New, North Berwick and The Glen. The journey along the coast comes to a glorious conclusion with Winterfield then Dunbar where three giants of the game Old Tom Morris, James Braid and Ben Sayers have created a course which lives long in the memory of all who play it.

However golf in the area is not confined to the coast with some spectacular inland courses including the James Braid designs at Musselburgh and Royal Musselburgh the fifth oldest golf club in the world, Castle Park, Haddington and Gifford, regularly voted amongst the best nine hole courses in the UK.

This rich wealth of historic courses is complemented by some recent additions. Craigiellaw, opened in 2001, boasts more spectacular sea views and is the current home to the 'Staysure Tour Scottish Senior Open' and hosts the Titleist National Fitting Studio. Located within the Archerfield Estate can be found East Lothian's newest gems; Archerfield Links which has already hosted European Men's and Ladies'

With such a wealth of golfing experiences available and all courses an essential part of any golfer's repertoire, the only option is to return again and again.

Tour events as well as the Scottish Senior Open and is home of the Archerfield Performance Fitting Centre while the Renaissance Club hosted the 2019 and 2020 ASI Scottish Open and is now a qualifying course for the Open.

For visitors, Scotland's Golf Coast offers a diverse choice of accommodation, providing the perfect opportunity to rest, relax and reflect on the day's round before thoughts turn to the prospect of the next round and breaking par. All of our accommodation provides easy access to our golf courses meaning no need to waste valuable time traveling from base to course, packing and unpacking and checking in and out of hotels, evidence indeed that the best drives in golf do not always need to be long and straight!

Spoilt for choice with 5-star luxury properties, smaller hotels, bed & breakfast pubs and homes, self-catering apartments and even centuries-old stately homes are all on offer. With much of the accommodation being 'family run' businesses, these proprietors take enormous pride in offering their guests the highest levels of service, comfort and an authentic experience showcasing all that East Lothian has to offer and always keen to advise their guests on the many attractions that are close at hand.

While golf is the magnet that draws many to East Lothian, the County has a lot more to offer both the golfer and just as importantly the non-golfer. In addition to its proximity to Scotland's Capital City, East Lothian boasts historic castles and battle sites mixed with the more modern National Museum of Flight with its Concorde exhibit, Foxlake Adventures, East Links Family Park and the Scottish Seabird Centre. John Muir, recognised as the Father of the US National Parks, was born in Dunbar and his birthplace is a popular visitor attraction located at the end of the John Muir Way, a walk or cycle route which stretches 134 miles [215km] across Scotland. Other forms of leisure 'travel' offered in the area include surfing in the North Sea amongst crashing waves, trekking on horseback along country paths or sandy beaches, riding a Segway through lush forests and if none of these appeal you can simply relax in an idyllic spa or treatment room.

No visit to an area can be enjoyed on an empty stomach and 'Scotland's Food & Drink County' is another title that East Lothian is proud of. The visiting golfer can enjoy the quality locally grown produce served in the hotels and restaurants across the County under the Visit Scotland 'Taste Our Best' banner. Locally raised meats supplemented with locally-caught seafood are there to tempt the discerning diner. When washed down with a pint of beer or cider from one of many breweries based in East Lothian, or perhaps a 'NB Gin' or a dram of 'Glenkinchie' malt whisky, both local products, we aim to please the contented golfer.

With most of the golf clubs on Scotland's Golf Coast recognised as 'Members' Clubs' it is a regular occurrence for the departing golfer to remark on how welcome they have been made at each stage of their visit and in particular they comment on the warm reception received both in the clubhouse and from club members happy to pass on notes on the history of their club and tips of how best to play the course.

The visitor's parting remark is usually "I'll be back"; so "Haste ye back" to Scotland's Golf Coast, where a warm welcome awaits you all.

At Archerfield Links, it's golf as it's meant to be. The great game but without any great fuss and bother. Here to be enjoyed by those who appreciate things done well. But never overdone.

More relaxed, more about you, and your enjoyment of the great game of golf. Archerfield is not just about playing golf (although, with golf courses this good it's a close run thing!), it's about an attitude of mind. We think it's our privilege that you have chosen us, not the other way round.

The Fidra Links

Out here, it feels as if it's just you and the course. Golf has never been more inviting than this: the 18 hole Fidra Links is a unique mixture of pine forest and fast-running links.

The Dirleton Links

On coastal land that has hosted golf for over 100 years, DJ Russell has created the 18 holes of the Dirleton Links. It's a challenging expression of a traditional Scottish links course with its sweeping fairways, deep, menacing bunkers and undulating dunes bordering the fairways.

Visitor Experience tee times can be arranged from £200 per person.

Craigiellaw Golf Club

Gents par 71 6601 yards Ladies par 71 5371 yards

Craigiellaw Golf Club is located on East Lothian's picturesque coastline, and only 30 minutes from the centre of Edinburgh, Scotland's Historic Capital. Designed by world-renowned Links course architects Donald Steele & Co., Craigiellaw truly offers a golfers' paradise.

Inspired by the great links courses of Britain, Craigiellaw represents 'pure golf' with its hard fast greens and inviting low shots. The 18-hole 6,000 yard plus par 71 golf course offers rolling well drained links, without the influence of huge sand dunes that dominate many of the links courses in the area. In addition to this, golfers can take in the breath-taking views over Aberlady Bay and the Firth of Forth as well as the Edinburgh skyline.

Not only does Craigiellaw offer a championship golf course, there is also a specialist Golf academy on site, providing first class practice facilities that the likes of Tiger Woods, Mark O'Meara and Greg Norman have made good use of. Our modern golf club with panoramic views over the Firth of Forth towards Fife provides the best in locally sourced produce in stylish yet laid back surroundings.

Dunbar Golf Club

Gents par 71 6597 yards Ladies par 72 5696 yards

A classic Scottish links course 30 miles from Edinburgh Airport, 25 from the City and on the main London to Edinburgh rail line, Dunbar presents a test for players of all levels.

With a proud history stretching back to 1856, the course was perfected over 150 years by three giants of the game, Old Tom Morris, James Braid and Ben Sayers. Blessed with a reputation for abundant sunshine the course lives long in the memory of all who play it. Opening with two par 5's it then hugs the coastline along a narrow strip of land within yards of the waves crashing onto the rocky shore. Stunning scenery and a welcoming clubhouse complete the memorable experience.

In addition to being an Open Qualifying course, Dunbar has hosted the PGA Championship, Scottish PGA and Scottish Amateur. The Ladies Home Internationals and British Ladies Championship, as well as many Scottish Ladies events have been played over our links. Junior golfers are also regular visitors with Dunbar having hosted both the British Boys and Scottish Boys on numerous occasions.

We are confident you will share the view that no visit to East Lothian is complete without a round on a course regularly voted amongst the best in the country.

Glen Golf Club

Gents par 70 6275 yards Ladies par 73 5773 yards

“The East Links at North Berwick, home of the Glen Golf Club is a beautiful links course which enjoys panoramic views and offers a round of spectacular golf. It is one of the most under-rated and best value courses in Scottish Golf” (Golf Monthly)

The East Links is a tricky combination of seaside links and headland holes, where the game has been played as far back as the 17th century. Over 100 years old, the original course design was provided by five times Open Champion James Braid and fellow golf professional Ben Sayers. This is a golfing experience that is not to be missed, offering a challenge for players of all abilities. Elevated tees and greens throughout the course mean that careful club selection, consistency and confidence in iron play is vital. It is a year round course, benefiting from the drier East Lothian climate. Previous visitors frequently comment on the breath-taking panoramic views and in particular the dramatic 13th hole, which tend to linger long in the memory of all who play here. Once in the clubhouse, players can continue to take-in the fantastic seascape views while enjoying a quality dining experience.

Gullane Golf Club

No.1 Gents par 71 6583 yards Ladies par 74 5903 yards

Host of the 2018 Aberdeen Standard Investments Scottish Open from 12th-15th July and Ladies Scottish Open from 26th-29th July over a Championship course comprising 16 holes of Gullane No. 1 and 2 holes of No. 2.

Golf has been played over the links at Gullane for more than 350 years. Today, it is one of Scotland's most prestigious member clubs, mixing the finest tradition with some of the most admired natural links land in the world.

Gullane is blessed with superb turf and a climate that allows all year round golf. Visitors are welcome to play our three championship courses, simply known by number reflecting their age. All offer dramatic coastal views and a golfing challenge to savour.

Gullane No.1 (1884) has a long history of hosting national and international championship golf events. Carved into the ancient links turf, pot bunkers, wispy grasses and smooth-running greens offer a unique challenge for the serious golfer. Add to that the fabulous views and you have one of the world's most cherished golfing experiences.

In 2019, National Club Golfer ranked Gullane No.1 at number 18 in the Top 100 Courses in Scotland and the spectacular par five 3rd was recognised as one of the best holes in the world by Golf Magazine (USA).

No.2	Gents	par 71	6385 yards	Ladies	par 73	5566 yards
No.3	Gents	par 68	5259 yards	Ladies	par 69	4920 yards

Gullane No.2

Gullane No.2 (1898) was laid out by the legendary Willie Park Jr.

Running alongside No.1 for the first seven holes, the course sweeps down to a nature reserve next to Aberlady Bay before turning back towards home and the visitors' clubhouse. The beauty of the coastline and the challenge of the layout create an unforgettable round that epitomises links golf in Scotland. Whilst shorter than its older sibling it provides an equally stern test, with challenge and charm in equal doses.

Gullane No.3

Gullane No.3 was also designed by Willie Park Jr in 1910. It may be the shortest of the three courses, but it provides a wonderful test based on shot-making skills rather than power.

Of all the courses at Gullane, No.3 enjoys some of the best views across Aberlady Bay to Edinburgh and the Firth of Forth beyond. Spectacular and challenging, No.3 is a course that demands a deft touch and a cool head. This is no soft option, despite a lack of yards the course still present the classic Gullane challenge of strategic course management, true running greens and numerous bunkers to be avoided.

Kilspindie Golf Club

Gents par 69 5494 yards Ladies par 70 5092 yards

Lying hidden among the nature reserve of Aberlady Bay, the quaint village of Aberlady, and the teeming waters of the Firth of Forth, Kilspindie Golf Club is one of the finest hidden gems any golfer can find. It is the 35th oldest golf club in the world, with the current course designed and first played on 26 November 1898. Retaining a wonderful charm and offering a great warmth of welcome, Kilspindie is a traditional Scottish seaside links designed by Ross and Sayers with later additions by Willie Park.

Kilspindie is a favourite of any golfer who has played the course: of medium length but with quick, deceptive greens; and well-defined fairways; the course is nonetheless a very good test of golf and a challenge to all, whatever your ability.

Several holes border the shoreline and each enjoys magnificent coastal views. Players may witness seabirds diving for food, migratory geese, and seals sunning on the sand. In the distance, you can see the profile of Edinburgh, its Castle, and the long extinct volcanic cone of Arthur's Seat. This all combines to create an experience of golfing beauty that you will be unlikely to forget in a hurry.

The clubhouse retains many of the original features and is a true celebration of the history of golf found in East Lothian. Whilst modern improvements have been made, the club's friendly welcome has never changed, making all visitors feel very much at home.

Longniddry Golf Club

Gents par 68 6260 yards Ladies par 73 5785 yards

Longniddry is the closest seaside course to Edinburgh, located on the south shore of the Forth and only a 15 minute train ride from the city centre. The course comprises an unusual combination of woodland and links, with spectacular sea views from many holes. The laying out of the course in 1921 was entrusted to Harry S. Colt, one of the foremost architects of the day. There have been a number of alterations to Harry Colt's original layout, notably in 1936, when James Braid was invited to advise on the second hole, following which a number of changes were made to the course, although none, it would appear, to the second!

With no par 5's and eight par 4's measuring over 400 yards, Longniddry offers a very good test of golf for both members and visitors who come to enjoy some of the best golf available in Scotland.

Formerly an Open qualifying course, Longniddry Golf Club was honoured to be invited to host the qualifier for the Aberdeen Standard Investments Scottish Open in 2019, having done so in 2018. The two-round event gave four players the opportunity to secure spots in the $7 million Rolex Series event at the Renaissance Club the following week. Longniddry also hosted the opening team event in the World Hickory Festival which was held again in East Lothian during October 2018 when over 100 players from 20 countries took part. Longniddry is regularly asked to host amateur competitions such as the Scottish Ladies (Close) Amateur Championship which was held at Longniddry in 2013.

Luffness New Golf Club

Gents par 70 6502 yards Ladies par 70 5545 yards

Luffness New Golf Club lies in the heart of the renowned East Lothian golfing country between Aberlady & Gullane. Founded in 1894 and designed originally by Old Tom Morris, Luffness New offers a challenging and enjoyable experience in a traditional setting. The course has seen small alterations over the years under the guidance of many great golfing figures including Willie Park and James Braid.

The Club is run primarily for its members but welcomes visitors where possible on all days except Saturdays. Visitors are encouraged to enjoy the whole Luffness Experience, not only the delights and challenges of the course, but also the traditional and characterful public rooms of the Clubhouse.

The Club retains the requirement for jacket & tie throughout the majority of the Clubhouse and lunch service in the dining room is restricted to between 12 noon & 2pm. Full details of the terms and conditions for visitors can be found on the website.

On the course, rules require a certain standard of attire including that gentlemen may play wearing tailored shorts but must accompany these with long socks. Where in doubt visitors should contact the Secretary.

A visit to Luffness New is the ideal way to experience a classic links course that is always in excellent condition and to enjoy the friendly but traditional atmosphere of the Clubhouse.

Muirfield, The Honourable Company of Edinburgh Golfers

Gents par 71 6728 yards

Muirfield is the home of The Honourable Company of Edinburgh Golfers: one of the oldest clubs in golf, it began in Leith in 1744, before moving to Musselburgh and finally in 1891 to Muirfield. It is a renowned venue to major championships, having hosted 16 Open Championships, the last in 2013 with Phil Mickelson the Champion.

Originally designed by Old Tom Morris, the layout has remained largely unaltered since 1926. The course is designed so that, during a round, holes will be played both against and with a following wind.

Visitors are welcome on Tuesdays and Thursdays with tee times from 08:30-09:50am. The handicap limit for all golfers is 18. Visitors can experience the unique character of the course by watching a short video on the website.

Built in 1891, the clubhouse is delightfully traditional and full of character, with all the main public rooms looking out onto the course. Visitors are welcome to lunch in the Dining Room upon completion of their morning round. The Dress Code for men is smart, and smart casual for ladies.

Muirfield is perfect for those who you enjoy a challenge, and wish to play a classic links course.

The Musselburgh Golf Club

Gents par 71 6725 yards Ladies par 75 5680 yards

This championship standard parkland course was designed by James Braid and is a true test of golf even for the most accomplished golfer.

The course has hosted many amateur and professional championships over the years including the Scottish Professional Championship on 2 occasions. The Royal & Ancient Golf Club chose the course as host of the Regional Open Qualifier for Scotland from 2006 until 2010. The R&A were obviously impressed and decided to include the course as a Local Final Qualifier Venue in 2013 for the Open Championship at Muirfield.

Musselburgh is a friendly club with a welcoming atmosphere. Our Head PGA Professional Norman Huguet and his staff offer expert advice using state of the art software in the new Musselburgh Golf Academy facility, and provide a well-stocked shop.

Musselburgh Golf Club is only 20 minutes from the centre of Edinburgh and 30 minutes from Edinburgh Airport.

Musselburgh Links, The Old Golf Course

Gents par 34 2954 yards Ladies par 36 2734 yards

Musselburgh Links, The Old Course, is a nine hole, par 34 links golf course, located in the heart of Musselburgh, surrounded by Musselburgh Racecourse.

The historic golf course was an original Open Championship venue hosting this competition on six occasions between 1874 and 1889.

Musselburgh Links is reputed to be the oldest playing golf course in the world, with documentary evidence dating back to 1672. There are also claims that Mary Queen of Scots played on Musselburgh Links in 1567. For a unique golfing experience, you can hire hickory golf clubs and play the game as it was in The Old Golf Course's heyday. Further information is available from the Starter.

The North Berwick Golf Club

Gents par 71 6140 yards Ladies par 74 5737 yards

Formed in 1832 The North Berwick Golf Club and the West Links course is one of the most historic in Scotland. Golf has been played over the same piece of land since well before the club was formed: only The R&A has played over the same piece of land for longer.

A classic seaside links course with stunning views of the Firth of Forth, it is a fair and challenging test of golf for all players. It is a true championship course having hosted many events over the years, including Final Qualifying for The Open Championship on 6 occasions, The British Ladies Amateur Championship in 2008, The Amateur Championship in 2010 and the inaugural 2015 Aberdeen Asset Management Scottish Open Pre-Qualifier.

Playing the course is all about imagination with the sea in play on 6 holes! The beach is just one long and sometimes wet hazard if the tide is in. You will find walls in the middle of fairways and in front of a green. All of these hazards add to the joy of playing the West Links, and are an important part of our history charting the development of the course.

A warm and genuine welcome and an excellent experience await all coming to play the course.

Royal Musselburgh Golf Club

Gents par 70 6254 yards Ladies par 73 5587 yards

Royal Musselburgh Golf Club is the fifth oldest golf club in the world. In fact, The Old Club Cup, which has been awarded at Royal Musselburgh Golf Club since 1774, is the oldest trophy still competitively played for in the world.

For their first 150 years, the (Royal) Musselburgh Golf Club played over the Old Course at Musselburgh, sharing it with other old and prestigious clubs, most notably, for the last years of the 19th Century, the (Royal) Burgess, The Honorable Company of Edinburgh Golfers and Bruntsfield Links Golfing Society.

Designed by the famous Open champion and golf architect, James Braid, Royal Musselburgh Golf Club sits on an elevated position overlooking the Firth of Forth. It is a picturesque parkland course kept in immaculate condition and is a treat to play, especially when you are coming into the home stretch on the last five holes. Although not the longest course, the challenge is ensuring accuracy off the tee and precision fairway shots.

The experience is completed by the clubhouse; Prestongrange House is one of the most spectacular clubhouses in Scotland. The house has at its core a Norman Tower House and is a wonderful example of Scottish architecture, in which a warm welcome awaits all visitors.

Winterfield Golf Club

Gents par 65 5142 yards Ladies par 68 4617 yards

Winterfield is a little gem of a course located in the popular seaside town of Dunbar. Situated right on the coast, you are welcomed to the stunning sea views of the Firth of Forth, the Bass Rock and the Isle of May with the Lammermuir Hills as a backdrop.

It's a relatively short course in terms of distance, but don't let this fool you! There are 8 par 3's, but only one is less than 170 yards, making it a challenging game for even the very best. The first is a cracker. From the tee, it's a 220 yard carry over a ravine to reach the pin.

Let's just say it's not the easiest of opening tee shots. While you'll be put to the test on the opening 9, the rewards are plentiful on the back. With a stretch of holes looking out to the Bass Rock and neighbouring Belhaven Beach, Winterfield is simply stunning.

Once played, this course is never forgotten.

Glenkinchie Distillery Visitor Centre

Scotland is world-famous for its whisky and Glenkinchie is one of the few remaining lowland distilleries still in production. Glenkinchie Distillery is situated a couple of miles from Pencaitland, amid the rolling Lammermuir Hills and rich agricultural farmland of East Lothian. Established in 1837 by local farmers John and George Rate, the distillery became the Glenkinchie Distillery Co. in 1890 and in 1914, it became one of five Lowland distilleries that formed the Scottish Malt Distillers Ltd.

The distillery's visitor centre offers a range of tours, all of which end in a tasting, where there is guaranteed to be a flavour to suit every palate. The fascinating exhibition includes a twenty-foot model of a distillery that was displayed in the Palace of Industry at the British Empire Exhibition of 1923-25, and the still house boasts the largest copper pot in Scotland.

Then browse the fantastic shop, where you can make use of the discount voucher you will receive on your welcome to the distillery. Glenkinchie operates a daily return transport service from Edinburgh city centre.

Whether you're a dedicated distillery 'bagger' or just wanting to find out more about this fascinating industry, make Glenkinchie part of your itinerary.
